TRAVIS HAS HIS REVENGE

Wyatt Taylor Beaten in First Round of Lakewood Golf.

WIZARD IN BRILLIANT FORM

Two Extra-Hole Matches En liven Contests, Crump and Gardner Winning.

Walter J. Travis had his revenge on Wyatt W. Taylor by defeating the Ardsley man 6 up and 5 to play in the first round of the open golf tournament at the Country Club of Lakewood yesterday. The Garden City wizard had the same fine brand of golf on tap that carried him so successfully through large fields in the South a short time ago. As for Taylor, it may be said that this player has as yet been unable to get within a third of his 1911

The best Taylor could do was to halve an occasional hole with his opponent and when apparent openings presented themselves as a result of a momentary slip on Travis's part the last named invariably made amends with a rare recovery. Cases in point were at the third and seventh holes, Travis getting trapped at both, yet managing to win one and halve the other. By going out in 40 he stood 3 up, and then supplementing a string of four 3's the Garden City man finished the match on the thirteenth green. His drive there, a matter of 24) yards, came to rest scarcely ten feet from the flag. After luncheon Travis took on H. V

Gaines, of Wykagyl. Here again the golf was all one-sided, Travis winning as easily as before. This time, however, he finished out the bye holes, and continuing on without a slip the veteran did the inward nine in 83, figures that made it possible to laugh even at par. The total of 75 is the best seen at the course in the pines in a long while, and considering that a strong wind was blowing the feat is all the more praise worthy. The card was as follows: Walter J. Travis, Garden City: . 4 4 5 8 5 5 5 5 6 42 .3 3 3 3 5 8 5 4 4 33 75

Two extra-hole matches marked the first round. The most protracted of these resulted in the meeting of George A. Crump, of Philadelphia. and Percy Platt, the Lakewood golfer, who won the Van Cortlandt Park tournament last season. Always long off the tee. Platt had an advantage in driving, but he frittered away many opportunities on the greens. After they had finished the round all square Platt had a fine op portunity to win the match at the nine teenth, when his opponent got into trouble. The Lakewood man promptly took three puts, so that they halved the hole in 5 Conditions were reversed at the next, where Platt lost a shot in a trap, but "stole" a halve by laying an approach dead. Platt missed another put on the twenty-first

The other tilt that went more than the regulation eighteen holes was between C. Gardner, of Ekwanok and C. E. Turner. of Midland. The first named, as a result of playing a good deal in the South, is on his game at present, but even so he had all he could do to dispose of the Midland solfer on the nineteenth green. Later in the day Gardner found M. J. Condon, of Wykagyl, an equally stubborn opponent, but once again the Ekwanok man proved equal to the occasion, winning by 1 up. The spectacular shot of the day went to

Howard W. Perrin, Philadelphia's hope. did all that was required of him, beating the Harvard captain, E. P. Allis, in the morning by a 2 and 1 margin, and then disposing of H. J. Topping, the Greenwich man, who called attention to himself by recently defeating "Chick" Evans at Pine-While not playing as brilliantly as Travis, Perrin would easily have been under 80 had he finished the bye holes in either

The other survivor of the day was C. N. Phillips, one of the all-year-'round players. Phillips beat George Crump in the after-This leaves Phillips to play Travis in one half of the semi-final round this morning and Perrin and Gardner in the other.

Criticise Decisions at the Brooklyn Horse Show

Lord and Lady Seaton Win the Blue Over Traugelt and Taugelt.

Decisions in the ring seamed to be quite at variance with those expressed by the railbirds in many of the classes, at the continuation of the Brooklyn Horse Show though the evergreen George was unable last night. There could be no two opinions to make much progress against the intercollegiate champion, he at least had the Moore's Lord and Lady Seaton in the opensatisfaction of popping in a niblick shot ing class of the evening, which was for pairs over 15.1 hands. Robinhood and Burgomaster were not shown, and this left the red for Philip Lavingston's Traugelt from an awkward stance in the rough he and Taugelt, which have won so many blues in the hands of Mrs. C. W. Watson In the exhibition of heavyweight saddle horses George Ballen's Dr. Hickey, a chestnut thoroughbred, with a well developed neck, carried away the blue. Tonzo Sauvage's Grand Duke and Little Prince made their appearance in the runabout class. The time has been when it was hard to choose between the two speedy highsteppers, but Little Prince is not wearing well, and it looked as though his blue was received more for his past performances than for anything he did in the ring last night. Eugene von Bach drove a good one from the stable of Emil Seelig. He was called Nonchalance, and he seemed to fill every requirement of a runaboua horse. roon in a match carried to the home green. He has extreme speed, good action and perfeet manners. Grand Duke was chosen to wear the yellow ribbon. Louis Haight drove the winner, and the exhibition finally resolved itself into a race between Little came through on the upper side after an Prince and Nonchalance. As the light wagons swung around the turns on two played at the top of his game. After the relief of the spectators both entries dropping into a beaten eight set Taylor had remained right side up, more by good luck One of the interesting features of the evening was the exhibition of military championship to be held in the ballroom GLASGO mounts; in fact, it was called military of the Hotel Aster on Friday, April 28. The evening owing to the fact that a new class was introduced for officers' chargers. This was an exhibition of model military mounts > uniform and to be judged for their adaptability for use in the army. The fact that more than a dozen horses answered the bugle call in the exhibition of military mounts may have accounted for the length of time which Major Milton F. Davis and Captain L. Andrews took to judge them. The horses were in the ring more than an hour,

to be shown in hand by enlisted men in blue; a fourteen-year-old chestnut stallion called Banaster, and Prince Hamburg, which falled to get in the ribbons. It was hard to pick the winner, for it is unusual to see so fine a lot of embryonic chargers in competition on the tanbark. The awards follow: Louis yesterday, showed that the shoulder-blade merely was dislocated. Physicians said he would be able to resume playing in two yeeks.
